

Examples and illustrations

The Historical Collapse of Southern California Fisheries and the Rocky Future of Seafood by Jim Haw, Scientific American, July 1 2013

blogs.scientificamerican.com/expeditions/the-historical-collapse-of-southern-california-fisheries-and-the-rocky-future-of-seafood/

The fishing fleet goes scientific, Popular Mechanics, August 1946, 148-152.

Hannesson, R. (2008). Sustainability of fisheries. The Electronic Journal of Sustainable Development, 1(2), 13-22.

www.ejsd.co/public/journal_article/6

Bibliography

Building the Fish Banks Model & Renewable Resource Depletion, by Joseph Whelan and Matthew Halbower, Road Maps D-4543-2

ocw.mit.edu/courses/sloan-school-of-management/15-988-system-dynamics-self-study-fall-1998-spring-1999/readings/fish.pdf

Meadows, D. L., Fiddamann, T., & Shannon, D. (1993). Fish Banks Ltd., Laboratory for Interactive Learning. Institute for Policy and Social Research, Hood House, University of New Hampshire, USA.

Ueber, E., & MacCall, A. L. E. C. (1992). The rise and fall of the California sardine empire. Climate variability, climate change and fisheries, 31-48.